hyaluronic acid based biopharmaceutical delivery and tumor - 1 introduction hyaluronic acid ha is a glycosaminoglycan that is widely found in humans it is the main component of the extracellular matrix and plays an important physiological role in the human body in recent years ha has become more and more widely used in the fields of arthritis treatment surgery drug research and development it is composed of glucuronic acid and n, external triggering and triggered targeting strategies for - drug delivery systems that are externally triggered to release drugs and or target tissues hold considerable promise for improving the treatment of many diseases by minimizing nonspecific toxicity, nanomedicine in cancer therapy challenges opportunities - 2 key principles of nanomedicine2 1 rationale for the development of nanomedicine products for cancer therapy there are convincing arguments in favor of developing nano sized therapeutics first nanoparticles may help to overcome problems of solubility and chemical stability of anti cancer drugs, preparation and application of cell membrane camouflaged - preparation of cns membrane core and their fusion the preparation of cell membrane coated nanoparticles involves three steps including membrane extraction from cells or bio vesicles core nanoparticle preparation and the fusion of the two into core shell nanoparticles fig 1 to obtain bio active cns each of the three steps is critical, non invasive delivery strategies for biologics nature - competing interests s m is a shareholder of consultant to and recipient of research grants from several drug delivery pharmaceutical and biotechnology companies including those active in the
